Exchange & Broker's Office,

Georgetown, District of Columbia.

ROMULUS RIGGS,

AT his office, next door below Crawford's tavern, Bridge-st. Georgetown, will exchange all kinds of Bank Notes on the most reasonable terms.—All persons who may have notes on the banks of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, would do well to call on him, as he is largely in the purchase of that kind of money, and will take it on the most reasonable terms.—Persons travelling to the Western Country may at all times get the Bank Notes of the Western Banks at a fair discount, by calling at his Office. For the information of all persons throughout the U. States, R. Riggs makes it known, that all of the Banks of the District of Columbia pay their notes on demand in specie; and it would be much to the advantage of the merchants, and trading to the South and west, to encourage the circulation of the Notes of the Banks of Georgetown, Washington and Alexandria, as it will at all times answer for remittances to the large commercial and Atlantic towns;—all persons emigrating or travelling to the westward should be very particular and take the Notes of the Banks of the District of Columbia, as they will find them the most current, there being no counterfeits on the District Banks. The Merchants' Bank of Alexandria has long since failed—all persons should be on their guard, as they will be imposed on. August 18

London, February, 15.

PECUNIARY INDEMNITY BY FRANCE TO THE ALLIED POWERS.

Definitive arrangements for regulating the mode and the periods of payment of the last one hundred millions of francs, of the pecuniary indemnity to be provided by France.

Existing circumstances having rendered it necessary to seek the means of diminishing as much as possible, the mass of the Inscriptions of Rentes, on the Great Book of the Public Debt of France, which may immediately be brought into the market at Paris, it has been agreed as follows:—

Art. 1. The inscription of 6,615,914f. of Rentes made over by France to the Courts of Austria, Great Britain, Prussia, and Russia, conformably to the 5th Article of the convention of the 9th of October, 1818, shall remain in deposit in the hands of the Commissioners of the said Courts, till the 5th of June, 1820. In consequence, the Contract entered into between the Courts of Austria, Great Britain, Prussia, and Russia, and the Houses of Hope and Company and Baring, Brothers, and Co. for the realization of the capital of the said inscription of Rentes, is considered as null and void.

2. In pursuance of the above Article, the inscription of 2,205,314f. which the four special Commissioners had remitted on the second of December, 1818, to the houses of Hope & Co. and Baring, Brothers, & Co. in execution of the contract sale above mentioned, shall be returned by these same banking-houses to the four Commissioners, who will return to them in exchange, their engagements for the same value. The said inscription of 2,205,314f. shall be transferred by the Royal Treasury of France, and shall be united under the name of the four special Commissioners, to the inscription of 4,410,630f. which remains in their hands.

3. On the 1st of June, 1820, France shall remit to the above-named Courts, in exchange, for the above-mentioned inscription of 6,615,944f. of Rentes, Bons of the Royal Treasury, for the sum of 100,000,000 of francs; the said Bons bearing interest at five per cent. payable in nine months, in equal portions, from day to day; to commence the first of June, 1820, and to finish the 1st of March, 1821.

The two first thirds of these Bons shall not be negociable; but the last third may be negociated from the period of the 1st December, 1820.

4. The commissioners of the Courts of Austria, Great Britain, Prussia, and Russia, will receive, the arrears of the said rentes of 6,615,944f. inscribed, with interest from the 22d of September, 1818, which will fall due from that day until the 1st of June, 1820 inclusive, on which day the successive remittances will be paid to the parties interested.

5. It is agreed that the above arrangements shall not interfere with those concluded between the French Government and the above mentioned houses, Hope & Co. and Baring, Brothers & Co. nor with the modifications which may be given to them by virtue of the present arrangement.

6. It is agreed that at the period of the negociation of the last third of the Bons which shall be placed at the disposal of the Courts of Austria, Great Britain, Prussia, and Russia, in pursuance of the 3d Article of the present arrangement, (provided that these Courts shall be disposed to make use of this power,) the French Government shall be informed thereof, and on the same condition shall enjoy the preference of negociating such Bons.

PARLIAMENTARY PAPERS.

Relative to the Slave Trade.—A series of highly interesting papers, connected with the efforts of this country to procure the abolition of the Slave Trade, have been laid on the table of the House of Commons.—The following is a summary of these documents:—

No conclusive arrangements having resulted from the conferences at London, the subject was resumed at Aix-la-Chapelle, and Lord Castlereagh, in a despatch to Earl Bathurst, dated Aix-la-Chapelle, Nov. 2, states, that in the conference of the 24th October, he opened to the Plenipotentiaries the existing state of the trade in slaves and gave notice that he should, on a future day, submit to them two propositions. 1st for addressing a direct appeal, on the part of the five Courts, to the King of Portugal, urging his Majesty to decree the final abolition of the Slave Trade in his dominions, at the period already agreed to by Spain, namely, the 20th May, 1820; and 2dly, that the Powers there represented should accept the principle of a qualified right of mutual visit. His Lordship adds, "it was impossible not to perceive, in the short discussion which ensued, that there was considerable hesitation, especially in the French Plenipotentiary, with regard to the principle of the latter measure." The principle of a mutual right of search seemed to involve the greatest difficulties. Ther is a paper, addressed by Lord Castlereagh to the Duke de Richelieu upon this subject, in which his Lordship combats the various objections which had been taken to the above measure. He also obtained an interview with his Grace, the day after the conference, and entered into a full examination of the measure in all its bearings; "and though (observes his Lordship) I cannot say that I succeeded in shaking his Grace's opinions, I flatter myself I reduced the weight and number of his objections; and that I brought his mind to feel the extreme inconvenience, as well as moral objection to leaving the question where it is."

In a subsequent sitting of the Congress (No. 4.) a proposition made by Lord Castereagh, was adopted unanimously, "that a letter should be written to the King of Portugal, in the name of the sovereigns, in the most pressing, and at the same time the most affectionate terms," in order to engage him to fix the 20th May, 1820, as the final term of the traffic in his dominions. Lord Castlereagh also proposed that "it would be useful, and perhaps necessary, to consider the trade in slaves as a crime against the law of nations, and to assimilate it to piracy." This was submitted as a matter for consideration merely.

In a letter from the noble Lord to Earl Bathurst, dated Aix-la-Chapelle, November 23, transmitting the notes of the Russian, French, Austrian, and Prussian plenipotentiaries, upon the two propositions submitted to Congress, his Lordship says, "the results of these notes being extremely discouraging to our hopes, it was determined to review the objections brought forward to the measure of mutually conceding the right of visit, especially by the plenipotentiary of France.

"After presenting this review to the consideration of the conference, and in an audience with which I was honored by the Emperor of Russia, I took occasion to represent to his Imperial Majesty, in the strongest terms, the necessity of taking some effective measure of this nature without delay, and without waiting for the decree of final abolition on the part of Portugal.

"His imperial Majesty listened with his accustomed interest to my representation on this subject, and promised me to give directions to his ministers, to propose that the consideration of the question should be re-opened in London under fresh instructions.

"The modification which I have finally urged of this measure, and I trust, with considerable hope of success, is, that in addition to the limitation of the righs of visit to the coast of Africa, and to a specific number of ships of each power, the duration of the convention should be for a limited number of years, say seven, at the end of which period the several powers would again have it in their power to review their decision after some experience of its convenience or inconvenience, of its efficacy to the object, and of the necessity of its being renewed, regard being had to the state of the illicit slave trade. This arrangement would sufficiently meet our most pressing wants, whilst it would go less permanently to disturb the acknowledged principles of maritime law, as regulating the right of visit. By the aid of this latter expedient, I flatter myself that I have made a considerable impression in removing the strong repugnance which was at first felt to the measure."

The result of all these deliberations was a declaration on the part of the allied sovereigns, represented at congress, that they would instruct their respective ministers in London to continue the discussions upon the subject—and Lord Castlereagh, in his last dispatch to the government at home, dated Paris, December 10, 1818, says, though "I cannot give hopes of any immediate progress, I venture, nevertheless, to indulge a sanguine expectation, that if the object be pursued with the same persevering and conciliating temper on the part of Great Britain, which has already achieved so much for the cause of abolition, the French government may be brought at no distant period, to unite their naval exertions with those of the other allied powers for the suppression of the illicit slave trade, under the modified regulations submitted for this purpose to the plenipotentiaries assembled at Aix-la-Chapelle."

London, Feb. 20.

The slave trade treaties were the subject of some conversation in both houses last night. In the house of Peers, the Marquis of Lansdowne moved for copies of any instructions given to commanders of his majesty's vessels; and also for a copy of the appointment of the mixed commission, under the abolition Treaties of 1817. From the answer given to the noble marquis by Lord Melville, it appeared, that no commission has yet been filled up, nor have any particular orders been given to the commanders of vessels. The reason assigned by the first Lord of the admiralty for this delay was, the necessity there had been for passing certain acts of parliament, subsequent to the ratification of the treaty, before instructions could be given to our naval commanders—and the difficulties which had arisen to find persons duly qualified to fill the important office of Commissioners, who were to act in conjunction with the commissioners. The same subject was brought under the attention of the House of Commons, by Mr. J. Smith.

The following regulations relative to the trade of Malta were made public by the Governor, Sir T. Maitland, on the 15th Jan. last.

The duty of one half per cent heretofore levied on all goods exported from the Island is abolished, and vessels' manifests outwards are no longer required. Vessels putting in here through stress of weather, or for information, may remain 48 hours without being obliged to give up their papers, and are at liberty to sail again within that period, subject only to the payment of one tari per ton for anchorage duties, and for water, if required. Vessels intending to avail themselves of the privilege, are directed to come into the quarrantine harbor, but are not, on that account subjected to any further expence. The excise import duty on rum, the produce of the colonies and possessions of Great Britain, is taken off. The quarrantine charges are also reduced."

The governor has also by proclamation, abolished, in toto, the several establishments of jurats in the Island of Malta and Gozo, from the commencement of the year 1819.

The mate belonging to the American brig Charles, Graves, Master, lying in Cowes roadsted, took the fatal resolution on Thursday week, literally to blow out his brains with a fowling piece, which he did in the most effectul manner, having shot away the upper part of the head above the eyes, and scattered the brain in all directions. A coroners inquest sat on the body the following day, Verdict—Lunacy.

London, Feb. 21.

The following communication of the governor at Gibraltar, respecting the plague at Algiers and Tunis has been made by the Lords of his Majesty's privy council to the commissioners of customs.

Gibraltar, Jan. 18.

"Sir—I have just received an official letter from Minorca, of the 28th ult. informing me that a vessel had arrived there from Tunis, after a passage of 8 days, bringing accounts that the deaths in that city amounted to above 400 per diem. The master of the vessel reported, that just before he sailed, he heard that the deaths had increased to above 600 per diem.

"A Dutch frigate had just arrived at Mahon, from Algiers, bringing despatches up to the 15th ult. by which it appears, that fresh attacks of the plague had taken place in that city. The contagion was supposed to have been re-introduced by persons who accompanied the Bey of Constantinas, Califfa, with the quarterly payments for the Algerine Government.

(Signed) GEORGE DON.

"P. S. The deaths by the plague, at Tunis, according to the official returns, from the first Nov. to the 1st December, amounted to 12,117. GEORGE DON.

"His Excellency Sir H. Wellesley."

The President of the United States has granted his exequatur to Monsieur Francois Benoist Thierry, as Vice Consul of his Majesty the King of France, for the District of Columbia.

The wicked and cruel practice of committing human bodies to the earth before there is a certainty of their perfect dissolution having taken place, still continues to prevail, in despite of the many exhortations and dissuasives, and indeed the many instances of persons being saved from that most cruel of all fates, which have been opposed to it. Many have arisen after they had been laid out in preparation for their sepulture—many have recovered from their trance in the coffin on their way to the grave—and not a few have been by accident discovered to have been buried alive, and to have made violent struggles under the earth to break their prison bounds.—One of those instances ought to have been enough to deter the relatives of deceased persons from intering the body till a certain stage of putrefaction testifies the impossibility of recovery. To the many which have from time to time been published as a caution to society on this subject, I am about to furnish you with one addition, which stands recorded on the pages of the anecdotes of the times in which it occurred, authenticated by several respectable historians. An instance so singular is well calculated to attract public attention, and to be treasured up in the memory—and therefore I offer it to the public, in order to stimulate the relatives and friends of persons whose animation has been suspended by drowning or any other accident, and to encourage them not to relax in their efforts to recover them, however hopeless appearances may be. I also mean it as a salutary check on persons of another description, the residuary legatees, second cousins, favorite housekeepers, and religious intimates of wealthy old bachelors, rich widows, and childless, or childish old men; I would desire them not to be too hasty in laying them out, and to pay some little regard to decency and decorum, before they send for the undertaker, screw up the coffin, and rummage for the will. A spark of life not yet wholly extinguished may be roused into a flame, and their avaricious hopes be ultimately defeated by a new devisee.

The circumstance I propose to relate, took place in the middle of the sixteenth century, during the reigns of queen Elizabeth of England, and Charles the ninth of France, at a period when the intrepid female who filled the English throne felt it her duty or her interest to interfere in the wars of the league, and actually sent an army of six thousand men, under the command of Ambrose Dudley, earl of Warwick, who took possession of Dieppe and Havre de Grace, but was too late to prevent the city of Rouen being taken by assault by the Duke of Guise and his party.

It was at this siege, in defending fort St. Catharine, a strong post, that Francis de St. Civile, a young man of a good family in Normandy, leading on the company he commanded, received a musket shot, which entering his right cheek, and passing obliquely downwards, was buried in his neck. A considerable effusion of blood took place, he fell motionless on the ground, and soon after being considered as dead, was stripped, and with another corpse, committed to the earth.

A faithful servant long connected with, and warmly attached to his family, impatiently waited his return, and on being told what had happened, was anxious to see the body of his beloved master, and with an amiable superstition to give it christian burial. In the eagerness of zeal and of love, he procured several soldiers of M. de St. Civile's company to attend him with torches to the spot where the captain was buried. The day was already closed, when he received the melancholy intelligence—and a solemn stillness reigned over a spot so lately the scene of carnage and confusion.

They opened many graves in vain, and as they were fearful of exciting the attention, and drawing upon them the fire of the besiegers, were preparing to return without having accomplished their business, when this trusty domestic's attention was suddenly attracted by some bright body on the ground, which reflecting the blaze of the torch sparkled in his eyes. Turning back to examine the cause, he saw uncovered a hand and arm of some corpse already buried: on closer inspection, and gazing with eager looks, he found that the glittering object was a diamond ring on one of the fingers; this he instantly recognized, having formerly brought it to his master as a token of love from the mistress of the young soldier's heart.

The body was disinterred without delay, and the valet, bearing it in his arms, returned to his quarters: he could not help remarking, as he carried this honorable burthen, that it was still warm: stopping a moment to look at that face which had smiled on him a thousand times, he perceived something like a faint breath issuing from the mouth. This circumstance created new hopes, and the instant he reached home, placing the body in a warm bed, and calling in medical aid, the wounded man gradually recovered.

The first object De St. Civile opened his eyes on, was the fond, the faithful domestic, who had attended him from his entrance into life, and had now snatched him from an untimely grave. He remained for several weeks in a languid state, and the city was in the mean time taken by storm; the besiegers being exasperated against the family of the wounded captain, for the active part they had taken, with that more than savage ferocity with which civil wars are carried on, threw the sick man from the window. Fortunately for M. St. Civile there was a large dunghill underneath, on which he fell without injury. Here, in the noise and confusion of a military assault, he lay for several days unnoticed by the enemy—was occasionally supplied with a little nourishment, and at last conveyed by night, through the kind care of his original deliverer, to a farm house a few miles from the city. At this place, with good nursing, he at length recovered, and was personally known to Mr. De Thou, to whom the world is indebted for the greater part of this short, but interesting narrative.

Georgetown, April 5.

Among the vast quantity of flour which has been brought down the Potomac to Georgetown, within the last few days, was some from Ohio. This fact is of immense importance; both as it regards the future prospect of the District of Columbia, and the advantages promised to the inhabitants on both sides of the mountains from that great national work, the Cumberland Road. It is now ascertained that the rich products of the fertile countries on the Ohio and its tributary streams, may be conveyed to this District in less time, and at less expense, and sold at a better profit, than to New Orleans. And it cannot be doubted that as soon as the road is finished, the whole of the surplus productions of those countries will find their way to the Potomac. The communication between these two great rivers once established, we shall begin to realize the benefits to which the comprehensive mind of the illustrious Washington looked forward in selecting this District for the Metropolis of the great American Republic. ——— [Messenger.

A SWINDLER CAUGHT.

Capt. Stith, alias Mr. Yates, alias Mr. Danver, alias Mr. Dade (it is a pity that among so many names he should be without a good one) the swindling gentleman lately advertised in the Richmond Enquirer, is now a tenant of the Jail of this Borough, to which abode he was consigned on Wednesday last.—He was recognised while reading a newspaper in the Reading Room, by Mr. Lyford, the Keeper of the Room, who, although he had never seen him before, was struck with the similiarity of his person and dress to the description given in the Enquirer; he made no remark however, but went to the file of the Enquirer to read the description again, when to his surprize he found the advertisement torn out; he was then confirmed in his suspicions: but, in order to observe what effect it might have on the suspected person, he took occasion to call the attention of a gentleman, (who, at the time was reading a file of the Petersburg papers) to the circumstance of the torn out advertisement, and to declare that no one but the swindler himself could have committed the trespass; and then proceeded to state the nature of the advertisement, when the gentleman remarked that he was just at that moment reading a paragraph in a Petersburgh paper relative to the same subject. Mr. Lyford then read the Petersburg article aloud, and commented upon it in a manner suited to affect the stranger, who accordingly turned from the paper he was reading and said "I hope, gentlemen, you do not suppose I am the swindler!" This new evidence in support of his first suspicion induced Mr. Lyford to call on the Inspector of the Corporation, to whom he related what had passed, when that officer lost no time in procuring an interview with the gentleman, who stated his name to be Dade, and on questioning him relative to his Business here, how he came here, where he was going, &c. was soon convinced that he was the identical fellow who had been advertised in the Enquirer, and without further ceremony conducted him to a magistrate. Not being able to give a satisfactory account of himself, but being caught repeatedly in contradictions and prevarications during his examination, he was committed to prison under a law of the Corporation as a vagrant.

Charleston, March 30.

ANOTHER ROBBER TAKEN.

Rene Jacobs, who robbed the house of Mr. Walker, at Goosecreek, on Thursday night last, was taken by one of the Police Officers on Saturday night, examined and committed to prison. He made a full confession of his guilt. Jacobs is said to be one of the gang of freebooters lately dispersed near the Five Mile House, a part of whom are now awaiting their trial.

We are requested to state that John Linton, esq. of Prince William, is a candidate for the senate, to represent the counties of Fairfax and Prince William, in the place of John Love, esq. who has vacated his seat.

We are authorised to announce William H. Fitzhugh Esq. of Fairfax, as a Candidate for the next Senatorial district, composed at the next election, of the counties of Loudoun, Fairfax, and Fauquier.

Conformable to the return made to me by the commissioners appointed to superintend an election of a member of the Common Council, to represent the first ward in place of Thomas Sanford, esq. resigned, I hereby make known that Matthew Robinson, esq. is duly elected.

For Sale,

TWO tracts of valuable land in Durham Parish, Charles County, Maryland opposite Nanjemoy Reach—one of these tracts of land is bounded on one side by the Potomac, has a valuable fishery, and contains about 360 acres of bottom, with a quantity of wood that ought to be cut.—The other is about three-fourths of a mile from the river, from one half to two thirds covered with wood and valuable white-oak timber, and contains about 700 acres. Both tracts have an orchard of choice fruit. The above land will be sold at Charles County Court, on THURSDAY in the third week of August next at Public sale, if not sold before, at private sale.—The terms will be made known at the sale. Timber or wood may be purchased any time previous to the sale.

Blacking for Boots & Shoes,

Superior to any ever offered to the public.

ROBERT COCHRAN,

No. 48, North Fourth-street, next door to the Green Tree Inn, Philadelphia.

WITH confidence offers to the public, his superior Portable and Liquid blacking, so much admired and approved of, which is manufactured by himself only.

This blacking possesses every desirable quality, being of an oily nature, it preserves the leather perfectly soft to the last, and keeps it from cracking—it is a jet black, affords a most superlative polish, entirely free from any offensive smell, and so clean as not to soil the whitest muslin or any other substance it may chance to run against, and will keep in any climate—it has a peculiar advantage in being put up in a portable manner, and may be packed without possibility of risque, with the nicest clothes or goods. The Portable Blacking is much adapted for gentlemen residing or travelling in the country, where materials for making Blacking is not to had, and as for cheapness and elegance, far exceeds any ever imported or manufactured in the union. Where is sold as above, the beautiful Chinese Liquid Blacking, for ladies morocco boots and shoes, which makes the oldest morocco boots or shoes appear the same as when new. Sold wholesale at the manufactory, as above.

N. B. Please observe that each bottle is sealed and signed by the proprietor, to prevent spurious impressions being imposed on the public.

It may be had at the following places in Alexandria.——Dr. Stabler and Richard Woods on Fairfax street,—Dr. Semmes, & Dr. Little's apothecary shops, on King-street.—Isaac Entwisles, shoe factory, and Thomas Mount's factory & Hardware store on King-street. sw2m March 29

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensels and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

September 4 GEORGE MASON.

Valuable Property for Sale.

THE subscriber is desirious of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate and the lands of general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—40 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, last spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence.—The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables.—There is on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutricious as the best timothy or clover.—With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow.—it would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it. The subscriber will also sell the greater part of his household furniture, which is new and handsome. For terms of all or any part of the above property, apply to NOBLET HERBERT, esq. or

Vaccine Institution.

THE small pox having appeared in Alexandria, such persons as have been vaccinated by the subscriber are invited to attend at his office, on St. Asaph-street, between Prince and Duke streets, to have their arms examined. Indigent persons are also invited to the same place for the purpose of being vaccinated. The subscriber will attend at his office every day in the week except Sunday, from 7 o'clock until 10 in the morning, for the purpose of receiving them.

He proposes also to be less particular than heretofore in the investigation of their claims to the benefit of the institution, as may respect their indigence and length of residence in town. The subscriber earnestly requests all such citizens as may be acquainted with persons liable to contagion, to send them without delay as above directed, where they will be served effectually and gratuitously.
